Dear Friends,

We are thrilled to write to you once again at the start of a New Year. I feel renewed when I can share this season’s blessing of Chanukah with you, as we celebrate the miracle of light—a symbol of the struggle not because it assures you victory but strength, even courage, to meet ongoing and new challenges. As Ta-Nehesi Coates so wisely put it continue: “The energy and trust that the kids offered me in the classroom was a window into the strength of individuals and the potential of compassion in the slum.”

The Amy Adina Schulman Memorial Fund supports social justice through environmental sustainability and empowerment.

In his first months in the Engineering Program at the Weinberg College of Arts and Sciences, Dylan Santure describes his first months in the Engineering Program at the Weinberg College of Arts and Sciences, "I had the privilege of doing this research. I learned that the things I learned are priceless, and I know they will serve me well."
